THE NEED OF MANUFACTURES.

It has become an established axiom that the permanent success of almost any community depends more than anything else on the extent and prosperity of its manufacturing interests. In this city the development of our business resources has been so rapid and flattering that but little thought has been given to the urgent necessity of establishing manufactures in our midst.

General business has been so prosperous, the demand for our produce in Arizona and New Mexico has been so active, the opportunities for successful speculation in land has offered so many inducements to the capitalist, and money has commanded such a high premium for safe investments on real estate and personal securities, that but few of our citizens have given thought to the more important consideration of inaugurating manufacturing ventures in Los Angeles.

It cannot be denied but that the City of the Angels is now enjoying a season of business prosperity almost without parallel in her history. Every mercantile and commercial enterprise of any importance is accomplishing wonders in the way of business success. The city is increasing rapidly in population and influence, and is speedily assuming all the attributes of metropolitan existence. Still, in the minds of certain people there is a doubt as to the permanency of this prosperity. Some people naturally regard it as only a boom, and with a decline in the demand for our produce, or with the evil of a dry season to curtail our harvests, they reasonably expect a corresponding falling off in the volume of our business, in the number of new buildings, in the amount of real estate transactions, and in the immigration to our city and county.

While we are sanguine enough to doubt that either of the causes enumerated would produce general disaster in business and financial circles, as some think, still we believe that Los Angeles should begin to consider measures that would tend to avert any such dire calamities. There should be some balance-wheel that will prevent seasons of booms and depressions, and will create a steady and certain condition of business prosperity. That balance-wheel is, undoubtedly, manufactures. Although Los Angeles is to a certain extent provided with these ventures there is abundant room for more, and the thicker they are the better for the city and even the manufacturers themselves.

The establishment of a woolen yarn mill, starch works, paper manufactory, or agricultural works, if properly managed, would prove paying property in this city. The present manufacturing enterprises and milling establishments are already successes, and the city would probably support more of these ventures if started. A woolen yarn mill or an additional woolen mill would undoubtedly do well here. It would improve the tone of the local woolen market, and would save to the Southern country the large sums of money now paid out for freights on wool east and freights on woolen goods and yarns west. It would also benefit Los Angeles in bringing operators in our midst who would spend their earnings at our stores, and in affording employment for a portion of the idle children that now infest our streets. A starch or paper mill could be made to pay in this community. The materials for making starch are grown in this county, and straw, the principal material used in the manufacture of coarse paper, can be had for the hauling. Los Angeles is splendidly located as a distributing point for the whole Southern country, and our markets have become the headquarters for the merchants of the adjoining Territories. The capital is not wanting either for the successful prosecution of any legitimate manufacturing or business enterprises, and all we need is the requisite amount of courage on the part of our citizens to inaugurate such ventures and to push them to success.

Considering the remarkable depreciation in the rates of interest in the past few years, and the prospects of a further decline in the future that will discount the past, we almost wonder that the monied men of this city do not give this subject more thought at least.

The day of high rates of interest is past in Southern California, and the time is rapidly drawing near when capital will be forced to seek other investments than exorbitant loans and securities. It is to be hoped that the men of means of Los Angeles will see where their interests lie and inaugurate profitable manufacturing enterprises before some other Southern city, San Diego for instance, gets the start and our opportunity is gone forever.

It does not pay railroads to cut each other's throats, as the Lake Shore Road has recently demonstrated to the entire satisfaction of the stockholders. During the past year it has carried on a bitter war between all competing lines running between Chicago and New York.

Its financial statement, recently published, shows that it has earned for the year past $16,000 against $1,624,000 last year. What the railroad has lost the people have probably gained, although the people will have to make the deficit up in some way or other before the next year goes by. At least this is the way it generally works.

We wish to heavens that the President would appoint Mr. Sargent to a Cabinet position. This everlasting ding dong that comes over the wires every night "That Sargent will be made Secretary of the Interior soon," has begun to grate on our ears like the squeaking of a new pair of boots early Sunday morning.

We do not particularly admire Sargent, but we are willing that he should be given several vacant Cabinet places if for no other reason than to save telegraphic expenses and the wear and tear on our sensitive ears.

STATE AND COAST NEWS.

There is now in and about Yosemite valley a party of Central Pacific engineers making a reconnaissance for a railroad from Merced to the coast.

Charles E. Butler committed suicide by shooting himself through the head on the 19th inst. at T. F. Grisby's ranch, near Yountville, Napa county. The verdict of the coroner's jury was that he was insane when the act was committed.

Monday evening Jose Bea was fatally stabbed at the corner of El Dorado and San Pedro streets, San Jose, by party unknown. The two had been in attendance upon a dance at a fandango, and had a quarrel about one of the damsels present.

On the evening of the 29th H. D. Brown had his right ankle broke while engaged in a fight on Main street, Grass Valley. It is said that he entered the saloon of Frank Dulmaine, and used bitter and abusive language towards the proprietor, when a fight ensued, resulting as above stated.

Turton & Knox have finished the long fill from the San Joaquin bridge. The masonry of the whole work was finished on Monday. It is a very substantial work. On Monday Thompson, foreman of the pile-driver at the Passaic cut, where the new bridge is being erected, had a foot and ankle crushed under a heavy timber which he was unloading from a boat for the bridge.

About a year ago the Board of Health of San Francisco adopted a resolution condemning Chinatown, and calling on the Board of Supervisors to increase the prison accommodations, so that the provisions of the cubic air ordinance could be enforced. The Board of Supervisors, for some reason, failed to give the matter attention. Tuesday night the Board of Health met and again adopted the resolution, and called the attention of the new Board to the necessity of at once increasing the prison accommodations.

Mr. Woodbury, the fish commissioner, at the Lake, in Alameda county, received Monday evening, 20,000 red speckled trout eggs from the Clear Spring Trout Ponds of Charlestown, N. H. A large number of them hatched on the trip out.

Very Fertile Soil.

[Atlanta Post-Appel.]

Desiring to show our distinguished visitor attention, a very small man, with a very large moustache, representing an alleged morning paper of this city, sidled up to Gen. Sherman this morning as he was viewing the cotton patch, near the Exposition grounds. "General," yawned the little man, "do you think cotton can be successfully raised on such soil as that?" "Humph!" remarked the General, "yes, I think it can." "What else can be raised on it?" asked the little reporter, smiling on William Tecumseh in a genial sort of a way. "What else?" replied the General. "Oh, anything can be raised here. Why, I raised h—ll on this very spot myself seven years ago."

"Johnnie, here you are at the breakfast table and your face is unshaven," said his mother with a sharp look. "I know it, ma, I saw the animalcule in my microscope last night, and I ain't going to have those things crawling all over my face with their funny little legs." "Hush! that boy is too full of applied science to live with." They were usually proud of him, dirty face and all, that morning.—New Haven Register.

Real estate was pretty valuable in Rome about the time of Caesar's death. Mark Antony said of one of the conspirators: "See what a rent the envious Casca made."

"Love is blind," and that is how they manage to keep right on with the gas turned down.—Lowell Citizen.

An Italian Brutally Murdered Near Santa Barbara.

Claus Spreckles' New Steamship Line—The Silver Question in London—The Lost Jeannette—Other News.

Associated Press Dispatches.

SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 23.—An Italian named Giovanni B. Trabuco, aged about 55 years, and an old resident of Santa Barbara, was found this morning brutally murdered, at his house near Ortega Hill, about four miles from this city. His throat was cut, his skull was broken in, and his hands were tied behind him. The coroner has gone to the spot with a jury and the result of their investigation will be made known to-morrow. It was supposed that he had money in the house in which he lived alone by himself, and the probabilities are that the object of the murder was money.

A New Steamship Company—The Tillson Tax Cases—Other News.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23.—To-day articles of incorporation of the Oceanic Steamship Company were filed. The purpose of the company is to conduct a general passenger and freight business between San Francisco and the Hawaiian Islands and other ports on the Pacific ocean and elsewhere. HEAVY TAX SUIT.

Judgment in favor of the plaintiff was rendered to-day by Judge Wilson of the Superior Court in the case of W. P. Herbert vs. Charles Tillson, Tax Collector, etc. This is one of thirty-eight actions instituted to enjoin the collection of taxes on what is known as the supplemental tax list, involving some $1,000,000 of taxes.

THE JEFF DAVIS STORY.

The Examiner this morning publishes an interview with J. C. Maynard, a prominent Democratic politician and ex-insurance Commissioner of the State. During the last year of the war Maynard was general Depot Quartermaster at Richmond. When the Confederates evacuated Richmond he received orders to furnish transportation to Danville. Among other property was about two hundred thousand dollars, mostly in silver, belonging to the State of Virginia, which was put on the cars at Danville and sent to Washington, Georgia, where by the order of the Secretary of War, Breckinridge, it was distributed among the members of the cabinet.

Nothing to do with it. There was no specie belonging to the Confederacy sent out of Richmond in wagons. Maynard believed the reports of the sums of money belonging to the Confederacy, and the charges of the war greatly exaggerated. Each department had some money to its credit in Europe but it is difficult to say what became of it.

A Rumor and a Denial.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—Commodore Walker, Chief of the Bureau of Navigation and Repairs, says the reports that Alaska has been fired on is absurd, and if there had been any foundation for it, the Navy department would have been so informed long before this rumor appeared. The naval authorities could easily have been communicated with by telegraph if there had been any truth in the report.

THE ALASKA ATTACKED.

A private letter received in the city yesterday from South America states that there is a rumor there that the U. S. steamer Alaska has been fired into and struck twice, damaging her so seriously that she had to return to Callao for repairs. Neither the State Department nor the Navy Department have received any information on the subject and the report is discredited.

GARRULOUS GUTEAU.

He Desires a Change of Counsel—A Scene in Court.

[Associated Press Dispatches.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—On the convening of the Criminal Court this morning Guiteau addressed the Court. After complimenting Scoville for the manner in which he had conducted his case, he said that Scoville had asked many questions which had compromised his case. He then asked the permission of the Court to have Charles H. Reed of Chicago assume charge of the case. "However," he said, "I want Scoville to continue in my case." Scoville arose and made a personal explanation to the Court. He mentioned the many difficulties he had encountered in conducting the case, and said he had expected to obtain assistance, but was disappointed. He had no objections to Reed becoming an associate counsel in the defense, and asked the Court to pass on the propriety of the question. The matter was discussed by Judge Porter and Corkhill, who questioned the propriety of submitting such a question to the decision of the Court. Judge Porter said, speaking in behalf of the prosecution, that he had no objections to Reed assuming active duties as counsel.

AN EXCITING SCENE.

A somewhat exciting episode occurred in court during the day. Guiteau had just been making himself very conspicuous by getting up and remarking: "I know one thing, however I'm getting more popular; I'm getting up." At that moment, a tall, lean, raw-boned man, with a lantern jaw and an iron-gray beard, looked as if he might be a Georgia "cracker," Vermont Yankee, stood up in the audience about ten feet behind the prisoner and acted as though he was about to move forward. He was very nervous and George Scoville and wife, who usually bear the court room excitement with composure, also seemed startled. The bailiff in charge of Guiteau quickly shouted, "Sit down, sir; sit down. It is supposed that the man simply wished to change his seat."

DR. STEARNS STATEMENT.

Dr. Henry B. Stearns, Superintendent of the Hartford Retreat for the Insane, was examined as a witness the Guiteau case to-day. He said that from 800 to 1,000 cases of insanity had come under his supervision during eight years he has been connected with the retreat. Witnesses made four examinations of the prisoner at the jail, all directed to ascertain his physical and mental condition. He testified that he did not consider the prisoner insane, as a result of his examination. He was questioned at much length on this point, during which time Guiteau continued abusive interruptions. At the close of his cross-examination court adjourned until to-morrow.

MRS. SCOVILLE SCARED.

Mrs. Scoville is quite alarmed for the personal safety of her husband. Scoville is constantly in receipt of threatening letters of a nature to excite apprehension.

Mining Suit Settled.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—The argument was concluded to-day in the United States Circuit Court before Judge Blatchford and a decision was rendered in the suit of Gov. Bell and others against Jas. A. Deanehus of Keokuk, Iowa, Mark Brummage, Mariposa Mining Company and Mariposa Land and Mining Company, of California. The argument was on a motion for an injunction to restrain defendants from performing certain acts touching the company, and also to declare null and void certain fraudulent transfer of stock.

THE BIRTH OF CHRIST.

How Christmas Will be Celebrated in Los Angeles.

The Christmas Trees at the Churches—The celebration at the Cathedral—Return of Bishop Mora.

From time immemorial children have looked forward to Christmas with the greatest pleasure. Their little hearts have always regarded the holiday as the most important of all the year, and their anticipations, increased by the joys of every succeeding Christmas, picture the pleasures of the approaching occasion in the most brilliant colors. The elders are not far behind the little ones in this respect, and they appear to take as much gratification in preparing for the Christmas holiday as the little ones do in expecting its arrival. The old German Christmas tree jollification has been adopted by almost the entire Christian world, and Los Angeles does not differ much from the rest of the globe in making grand preparations for Santa Claus to hang his presents for the little ones among the branches of the time-honored evergreen.

A representative of the TIMES visited the various churches of the city yesterday and found almost every one undergoing the most elaborate dressing, many of the trimmings and decorations being of the most elegant description.

AT THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH.
The Episcopal church, on the corner of New High and Temple streets, is most tastefully festooned. From the walls hang large loops in evergreens and flowers. In front of the altar is placed a stone fountain trimmed with artificial flowers in the most artistic manner. The ceremony of distributing the presents from the Christmas tree at this church will take place Monday evening at 7 o'clock. To-morrow morning the Rev. Mr. Ridsell will discourse on the birth of Christ at the regular service of the society.

FORT STREET PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
The Presbyterian Church on Fort between Third and Fourth streets will be handsomely decorated. The holiday fun for the little folks will begin at this church at 7 o'clock this evening. Presents will be distributed and a general good time had. Everybody is invited.

SPRING STREET M. E. CHURCH.
The M. E. Church South, on Spring street, has been handsomely trimmed with evergreens etc., for the Christmas festivities. The ladies are making great preparations and the little ones may expect a treat. The Christmas tree present distribution ceremony will take place at seven o'clock this evening. Bishop Allen is in town and will preside at the annual love feast to-day at 11 a. m. To-morrow the Bishop will officiate at the church. On Monday evening the ladies' missionary concert will take place. The programme will be carried out by the Sabbath school children and will consist of recitations and musical selections.

FORT STREET M. E. CHURCH.
The M. E. Church on Fort street has been very prettily decorated, being handsomely dressed with evergreens, flowers and flags. Instead of having a tree the presents will be distributed at this church by Santa Claus, who will perform his labors from a large Christmas horse. The Rev. E. S. Chase, pastor of the church, will preach a Christmas sermon at 11 a. m. to-morrow. In the evening he will discourse on the subject of "The Theaters."

THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.
The Congregational Church on New High street has both festooned with evergreens and flowers. The ladies have made great preparations for their Christmas tree and musical entertainment, which will take place on Tuesday evening. The Rev. C. J. Hutchins, of this church, will take for his subject to-morrow, "The Birth of Christ." He will preach at 11 a. m.

THE GERMAN CHURCH.
The German Church on Fourth, between Fort and Hill streets, has been very elaborately decorated. The Christmas tree entertainment will take place Monday evening at 7 a. m. The Rev. Dr. Bollinger will hold the regular Christmas services at 11 a. m. to-morrow, at the church.

THE CHRISTIAN'S CELEBRATION.
The Christian Church, at Union Hall, has been festooned with evergreens and flowers. The Christmas social and entertainment will take place Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. Christmas services will be held at 11 a. m. to-morrow.

AT THE CATHEDRAL.
Last but not least is the Cathedral of St. Vibiana on Main street. This handsome building has been very tastefully decorated with flowers and evergreens. Bishop Francis Mora will return to his flock this evening by the overland train from Europe, where he has been for the past seven months. He will be met at the depot by a committee and conducted to the church where an address of welcome will be delivered by the Rev. Hugh McNamee. To-morrow at 5:30 a. m. High Mass will be celebrated at the Cathedral. At 10 a. m. Pontifical Mass will be conducted by the Bishop, assisted by six priests. The children's entertainment will take place Monday evening.

Arizona Beats Jugged.

Three Arizona beats, named T. Kelly, T. Kelly and C. Howard, met by mutual agreement on Requena street last night to settle an old quarrel. They went, they saw, they got taken by those wide-awake officers, Horner and Dobson. For three minutes previous to the arrival of the officers the night raged fast and furious, then there came a lull in the storm, and now the poor fellows recline in the bosom of the city lodging-house.

Raising Jimjammation.

Joe Wilson and Samuel Daily, two pets from Bitter Creek, raised particular Jimjammation on Alameda street yesterday. They started out hunting whiskey and they got it. But they got too much, and then they wanted to buy the town. In their efforts to make the purchase they got so numerous that officers Fletcher and Benito fell on the two darlings' necks, and out love for the human race conducted them to the city prison.

A New System Wanted.

At six o'clock last night an alarm was turned in from box 314. The regular shooting, bell-ringing programme was carried out in the regulation order. It is time this city had a good fire-alarm system. The city fathers will poke along in their sleepy, one-horse style until two-thirds of the town is burned up, then they will wake up and put in an alarm system.

A BALKY BRONCO.

He Backs a Wagon Over a Thirty-Foot Embankment.

Yesterday afternoon a mustang horse attached to a light fruit wagon, accomplished a thrilling feat in the gymnastic line, on Olive street. Any one that has ever attempted to handle a California mustang horse, when said horse gets the sulks, will drop a tear of sympathy for the unfortunate fruit-dealer who attempted to make his horse go when the horse had concluded otherwise. As was intimated before, the fruit man and his horse had a democratic discussion yesterday, on Olive street, and the horse came out on top. It was in this way: A balky horse will always pick his spot for cussedness. This one did, at any rate. He got close to an embankment, thirty feet down, and commenced backing for the place with all possible stubbornness. The driver objected, and so did the horse, when they picked themselves up at the bottom of that embankment. The wagon was a complete wreck, but the man and horse were not hurt in the least.

ABOUT TOWN.

No sign of rain. The farmers must pray or go hungry.
Billie Arnold's benefit was a grand success last night.
The various church Sunday Schools will turn themselves to-night.
The reception of Bishop Mora will be an imposing affair this evening.
Col. John C. Davis and wife who have been spending a few months in this city return East to-morrow morning.

Baptist Christmas Tree.

Good Templars' Hall was filled to overflowing last night, it being the occasion of the Christmas tree entertainment of the Baptist Sunday school. The hall was handsomely decorated with evergreens and presented a very imposing appearance. The Christmas tree was heavily laden with costly presents. Professor Patton conducted the services. The following programme was carried out: Piano solo, Miss Corlin; solo, Miss Ada Brown; recitation, Miss Winnie Malard; solo, Roby Weldon, and "The Farmers Song" by twenty young misses. Then the fun began for the little folks. Quite a number of handsome presents were made. Everybody went home feeling happy, especially the children.

Paying the Schoolmarm.

City Treasurer Kayes had too much joy yesterday. The festive "schoolmarm" took it into her head that she wanted to celebrate, and when a woman wants to get up a circus she wants the glittering gold as any well-trained, hen-pecked husband will testify. About thirty of the sweet creatures got it into their heads yesterday that the county was indebted to them for salaries due and unpaid, so they filed into the Treasurer's office and made things lively for the gallant Kayes during the best part of the day. In all the City Treasurer paid the schoolmarms about $2,000.

An Old Offender.

Robert Smith, who was caught at the house of one Terrill, on Alameda street, day before yesterday, was arraigned before Judge Adams yesterday for getting away with $70 of Terrill's coin. He pleaded not guilty. But he had been before the court before, and the Judge knew that he was doing when he held Sir Bob in $500 to appear for examination.

Didn't Appreciate Music.

The guitar thief, with a passion for music, was arraigned before Judge Adams yesterday. He pleaded not guilty. But the terrible Judge hasn't got an ear for music, and he held the poor professor to appear for examination, with bail fixed at $500. The professor couldn't produce, and went to the county lodging-house.

A Fighter Found.

Joe Montana, a fighting Mexican, who kicked a brother Mexican all over the streets about a month ago, was arrested yesterday. He will be tried before Judge Fisher on Monday next. He has had a good long run and well deserves to be well treated by the Court.

The Weather Report.

Observations taken by the U. S. Army Signal Service at 8 o'clock last night are as follows:
Barometer, 30.54; Thermometer, 54.24; Wind N.E.—8 miles per hour; Clear; Maximum in thermometer, 72; Minimum thermometer, 45.

ANCIENT LOS ANGELES.

The Choice Christmas Story Told by a Times Typo.

Don Panco Bevari and His Sweetheart Katilena Yakenfeld—A Perfectly True Tale in Two Chapters.

'Twas Christmas eve in Los Angeles, or rather it was near Christmas midnight. The old bell on the Cathedral had just struck eleven o'clock, thirteen minutes and four and one-half seconds. The year was 1133 B. C., or maybe a little earlier, at any rate it was about 1500 years before America was invented, although Los Angeles had been in existence then, according to Major Bell's Recollections, about 6000 centuries, but Major Bell is a truthful man, and Los Angeles is a very, very ancient village. The snow was falling faster than Comstock stocks ever fell in wonderful San Francisco, even during the palmy days of 1875. The snow was tumbling, pitching, roaring down from the dark and threatening clouds stationed over Downey block—and the thermometer was 187 miles below San Diego. It was colder than seven sections of Wrangle Island. It was all froze up and the snow-drifts were piled up three miles over the Cosmopolitan Hotel. The keen biting winter's wind whistled through Main street, turned the corner at the Baker block and flashed off like a four-year-old flea down into Chinatown, carrying desolation and woe and seventeen Irish women and an Arizona cowboy in its mad career. A solitary pedestrian tramped the streets. It was our hero, Don Pancho Bevari, a noble specimen of the homo greaseros. On his head was a basket of ripe oranges which he had just stolen from the blooming orchard of Hoose and Stern, near San Gabriel. In his hands were a huge bunch of bananas that he had gathered from the roadside on his way into the city. A gentle smile played across the city surface of his mansard brow, and an Old Judge cigarette sent up volumes of smoke from his gentle lips. Happiness was depicted in his every action. He was happy. He was carrying a Christmas offering, even though he had stolen it, to his fair Katilena. As he trudged along the bells from the Fort street Methodist Church pealed forth the merry Christmas morn. He turned up Temple street, stopping a moment at Meyberg's corner to brush the icicles away from his perspiring brow.

Katilena Yakenfeld sadly gazed down from her brown stone mansion of her master, Don Juan Jose de La Joaquina, which is on the hill that is called Nob. Katilena loved her Pancho, and when she looked down and saw the cold, glittering snow enveloping the form of her noble, bronzed-skinned lover, she wept. Her delicate white hands laden with diamonds amounting to $900,000.00 in value, and fresh from the dishpan, invoked the assistance of the Savior, who had been born near Los Angeles 1190 years ago. She wept, and as the burning tears fell from her marble-framed window, and rolled down Temple street, great furrows were cut in the cold, cold snow, and warmed the freezing toes of her dear Pancho. Pancho looked up through the gloom, darker than a stack of black cats in a nigger's pantry, and caught the smile of encouragement on his sweetheart's broad face. He felt that his more than beautiful girl would never throw her three hundred and sixty three and one-third pounds of animated tautonic flesh in his manly arms. Just at this moment Mr. Rose appeared on the scene. He threw himself from his noble mustang, his head reeking with perspiration. He clasped his hand on the shoulder of Pancho. They grappled. There was a loud shout from the palace on the hill that is called "Nob." They struggled for half a second and then fell into a snow drift near the Mirror office 400,000 miles deep. The whole police force was on the spot in a moment. The force numbered one poor old Irishman and 300,000 Mexican dogs.

THE POETS.

DO I LOVE YOU?
Do I love you? Do I love you?
Ask the heavens that bend above you
To find language and to prove you
If they love the living sun,
Ask the burning, blinding messengers
What they think about the shadows,
When the falling shadows
When the fervid day is done.

Ask the bluebells and the daisies,
Lost amid the hot-field mazes,
If they love the summer rains.
Ask the daisies and the clovers,
In the nest-life made for lovers;
Ask the bees, ask the clovers—
Will they tell you for your pains?

Do I, darling, do I love you?
What, I pray, can that behave you?
How in Love's name can I move you,
When for Love's sake I am dumb?
If I told you, if I told you,
Would that keep you, would that hold you,
Here at last where I enfold you?
It would—Hush? darling come!
